Looking after an empty home: a simple guide for executors and families

When a home is left empty after a death, a move into care or between tenants, a few simple steps help keep it safe, and keep you on the right side of your insurance.

WHY IT MATTERS

Empty homes, extra conditions

Once a home is unoccupied, home insurers often add extra conditions to the policy. Common ones include:

- Regular inspections
  Commonly every 7 or 14 days, inside and out.
- Winter precautions
  Sometimes the water drained down, or the heating kept on.
- Post cleared, home kept secure
  So the house doesn't look empty from the street.
- A record of each visit
  If you ever need to claim, you may be asked when the home was last checked.

Missing a condition could affect a claim. Every policy is different, so read your own policy wording, or ask your insurer or broker exactly what they need.

EMPTY HOME CHECKLIST

Things you can do today

Tick as you go

- [ ] Tell your insurer the home is empty and ask what cover applies now.
- [ ] Find out the inspection interval (for example every 7 or 14 days) and any other conditions.
- [ ] Keep a dated log of every visit with what you checked and found. Photos help.
- [ ] Secure doors, windows and outbuildings, and move valuables somewhere safe.
- [ ] Clear the post regularly, or set up a redirection.
- [ ] Set heating to frost protection, or drain down – whichever your policy asks for.
- [ ] Take meter readings (gas, electricity, water) and note the date.
- [ ] Keep keys safe and know exactly who has a copy.
- [ ] Think about utilities and council tax: tell suppliers and the council the home is empty.

HOW APTO HELPS

3 simple steps

1. Tell us about the property
   The address, how often your insurer needs it checked, and anything the policy asks for.
2. Hand over keys securely
   Post or drop off a key. It gets a coded tag, so the address is never on the key.
3. We visit and email a report
   A timestamped photo report the same day. Any problem, we call you straight away.

EVERY VISIT

What each visit includes

- Exterior check
  Doors, windows, locks, roof line
- All rooms + loft
  Leaks, damp, pests, break-ins
- Heating & water
  Frost setting checked, taps run
- Post collected
  Listed, scanned or forwarded
- Meter readings
  Recorded and photographed
- Insurer-ready log
  Dated record of every visit
